5. How We Share Your Taboolar Data

- 5.1 We take care to allow your Taboolar Data to be accessed only by those who truly must access it in order to perform a service for the Taboolar or for Taboola, and to third parties who have legitimate purpose for accessing it. Whenever we authorize third parties to access your Taboolar Data, we take steps to ensure they have appropriate security measures in place and that they only use the Taboolar Data in confidence and in a way that is consistent with this Privacy Notice.
- 5.2 We may share your Taboolar Data in the following ways:
- (a) With other companies in the Taboola Corporate Group: We may need to share your Taboolar Data with other Taboola offices around the world in order to manage and administer our human resources services, to manage Taboolar transfers and travel, and for other business purposes like IT, taxes, accounting, and general business management. These international companies in the Taboola Corporate Group may be registered by a different legal name than the company with which you are employed — for example, you may be employed by Taboola Korea Ltd.

and we may need to share your Taboolar Data with Taboola (Thailand) Limited — but these companies all operate together as one global Taboola entity.

- (b) With third party service providers and agents: We may also make certain Taboolar Data available to third parties who provide services to us (such as our human resource management software, Taboolar benefit plan providers, payroll support services, share incentive plan and Taboolar stock purchase plan coordinators, and Taboolar travel management services). When we share with these third parties, we do so on a need-to-know basis and under clear contractual terms and instructions for the processing of Taboolar Data.

- (c) With third party companies that provide software and tools to Taboola: We may also make certain Taboolar Data available to third party companies that provide tools relevant for our business operations (such as to assist with internal ticketing, product engineering, and design services). Should these companies require user log in details, those details will be limited to the taboolar's name and professional email, and in limited circumstances, may be used and sold by the third party for advertising purposes.

- (d) With other third parties: We may also share your information with other types of third parties, such as our legal representatives, industry groups or self-regulatory bodies, or event planners, on lawful grounds. For example:

6. International Transfers of Your Taboolar Data

- 6.1 Taboola and our service providers may collect, use, process, store, or disclose your Taboolar Data outside your home country or jurisdiction. These outside countries may have different data protection laws than the laws of your home country. But rest assured that Taboola only transfers Taboolar Data to another country (including to a company within the Taboola Corporate Group) in accordance with applicable privacy laws, and where there are adequate data protections in place. We will ensure that your Taboolar Data is treated in accordance with this Privacy Notice wherever we process it.
- 6.2 If you are a Taboolar in the EEA, the PRC, or California, Taboola may transfer your Taboolar Data outside of the country in which you work. To ensure that your Taboolar Data is adequately protected in such transfers, applicable data protection laws mandate that such transfers must take place using certain legal mechanisms. When transferring your Taboolar Data from the EEA to Israel, Taboola relies on the European Commission's determination that Israel offers adequate data protection for transfers from the EEA. When transferring Taboolar Data from the EEA or PRC to elsewhere, Taboola relies on the European Commission's approved Standard Contractual Clauses, which are contractual privacy and security commitments between companies that transfer Personal Data (for example, from Taboola Europe Limited to Taboola, Inc.). Taboola.com Ltd. and its Affiliates have accordingly adopted Standard Contractual Clauses to ensure the legality, privacy, and security of the data flows necessary to provide, maintain, and develop our services.

7. How Long We Keep Your Taboolar Data

- 7.1 We will keep your Taboolar Data for as long as is needed to carry out the purposes described above (or as otherwise required by law). Generally, this means we keep your Taboolar Data until the end of your Taboola employment, plus a reasonable period of time after to respond to any employment inquiries, deal with any legal or administrative matters, or to provide you with ongoing pensions and other benefits.

8. Monitoring Notice

- 8.1 We periodically need to monitor our IT and communications systems for specific purposes. We may do this through automated tools like anti-malware software, website filtering, spam filtering, intrusion detection and prevention systems, security software and mobile device management solutions to maintain and protect our IT systems and network security, including investigating and responding to suspected security incidents.
- 8.2 We also monitor Taboola's office premises by security footage and badge scans.

8.5 We recognise that any monitoring that we perform may impact our Taboolars' privacy, so we will always seek to ensure that any monitoring we perform is proportionate for the limited and specific purposes needed and conducted as required or permitted by applicable law. Before undertaking any monitoring activities, we will always consider your privacy carefully and assess whether there are any less invasive options available.

9. Your Rights to Your Taboolar Data

9.1 Several of our self-service HR Information Systems (“HRIS”) (for example, Bamboo, SuccessFactors, and ADP) allow you to view and update some of the Taboolar Data that Taboola holds about you. - (a) You have the right to update, correct, and access your Personal Data.
- (b) If we have collected and processed your Personal Data with your consent, then you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. (Please note that withdrawing your consent will not affect the lawfulness of any processing we carried out prior to your withdrawal, nor will it affect processing of your Personal Data carried out in reliance on other lawful grounds other than consent).

- (c) The right to object to processing of your Personal Data, ask us to restrict processing of your Personal Data, or request portability of your Personal Data.
- (d) To have your Personal Data erased in a number of other circumstances, such as where it has been unlawfully processed, or where there are no overriding legitimate grounds for the processing.

- 5.10 You should not collect or use any Sensitive Data or Criminal Records Data unless this has been reviewed and approved by Taboola’s Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.
- 5.11 Be aware of our policies and reach out to privacy@taboola.com with any questions.
- 5.12 Understand the different measures we have in place to protect Personal Data and know when to use them.
- 5.13 If you spot a privacy issue, report it to privacy@taboola.com or IT@taboola.com.

6. How Does Taboola Comply with Data Protection Principles in Everyday Practice?

We Ensure that We Have Lawful Grounds to Process Personal Data

- 6.1 We only process Personal Data for purposes permitted under applicable data protection law. Permissible purposes include:
 - (a) To comply with a legal obligation (for example, as an employer, we may be required to process certain information about our Taboolars);
 - (b) To protect the Data Subject’s vital interests (for example, if there is a medical emergency);
 - (c) For performance of a contract with the Data Subject or to perform steps prior to entering into a contract at the request of the data subject;

- (d) For the legitimate interests of Taboola or a third party but only if the Data Subject's rights are not outweighed, for example, where the business benefit to Taboola is limited but there would be significant intrusion on the privacy of the Data Subject; and/or
 - (e) The Data Subject has given his or her consent (although this should only be sought if one or more of the other grounds above do not apply).
- 6.2 There are additional special grounds for processing Sensitive Data and data regarding criminal records. As noted above, you should not collect or use any Sensitive Data or Criminal Records Data unless it has been reviewed and approved by Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.

Relying on Consent

- 6.3 Whenever relying on consent to process Personal Data, Taboola ensures that consent is:
- (a) Documented – so we can demonstrate that we have obtained consent lawfully;
 - (b) Given affirmatively (such as ticking a box or signing a document) – we cannot rely on 'inaction' as a way of obtaining consent (e.g., no pre-ticked boxes);
 - (c) Freely given and retractable at any time – it must be as easy for Data Subjects to withdraw their consent as it is to give their consent; and
 - (d) Not conditioned – for example, not given on the condition that other actions are taken, accepted, or exchanged.

Transparency, Purpose Limitation and Minimisation

- 6.4 You, as a Taboolar, should decide what Personal Data is necessary for the intended purpose (i.e. to provide the required business services) and collect only the minimal Personal Data necessary for that purpose.
- 6.5 Because Personal Data may only be collected for a specific purpose, the Personal Data should only be retained for the time necessary to complete the purpose. Our Privacy Notices (internal and external) set forth the time period for which we generally retain Personal Data. Our computer and IT systems are already structured to comply with these timeframes, so you should not tamper with these settings to keep the Personal Data for any longer.
- 6.6 If you need to use Personal Data that Taboola has provided you access to for any purpose other than legitimate business purposes, this must be reviewed and approved by Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.

Accuracy

- 6.7 We must keep Personal Data accurate. This will mean, in each relevant context, that we must consider how we will regularly update information. If you get any such request from a client or partner, please direct this request to Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.

Data Subject Rights (EEA, PRC, and California Only)

- 6.8 Data Subjects in the EEA and PRC are entitled to exercise certain rights with respect to their own Personal Data. These rights are explained in Taboola's EEA Data Subject Rights Handling Policy and Taboola's PRC Data Subject Rights Handling Policy.
- 6.9 If a Data Subject's Personal Data is shared with a third party or if a third party shares Personal Data directly with Taboola, we are required to ensure that a mechanism is in place to communicate with each other about any requests to restrict, delete, or correct Personal Data, unless this would be impossible or involve disproportionate effort. If you receive an inquiry from a Data Subject, such as a User or Customer or any other third party (i) asking what information or Personal Data Taboola holds about that individual, or (ii) requesting that we update or delete that individual's information or Personal Data, please direct it immediately to Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.

Security

- 6.10 Taboola must keep Personal Data secure and protect it from any unauthorised access, accidental loss, damage, or destruction. You should ensure that you are familiar with, and that you follow, our security policies and procedures that are designed to protect our IT systems, our premises, and the data stored within them (including both confidential information and Personal Data). You must also follow the practical steps set forth above in Section 5.
- 6.11 When Taboola collects Personal Data for a particular purpose, we must always consider whether we could achieve the same purpose with anonymised data. If that is not possible, we should strive to encrypt or pseudonymize the Personal Data (for example, by masking, hashing, or otherwise concealing the data). The more confidential the information, the higher our security standards will need to be to protect it. Please consult with Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com, if you have questions about whether certain Personal Data needs to be encrypted or pseudonymised.
- 6.12 Personal Data should not be shared with anyone or any organisation outside of the Taboola Corporate Group (including to our service providers) unless (i) appropriate contractual arrangements have been signed (including our standard non-disclosure and data processing agreement), or (ii) the disclosure is otherwise permitted under data protection law. Please consult with Taboola's Legal team (legal@taboola.com) prior to sharing any Personal Data with any third party.
- 6.13 Before authorizing any third party providers to hold or have access to Personal Data on our behalf, Taboola must first carry out due diligence to verify that the third party meets our data protection standards for Personal Data and is compliant with the GDPR's requirements. Please refer requests for due diligence assistance to Taboola's IT Team, at IT@taboola.com.

Data Transfers

- 6.14 Personal Data cannot be transferred outside of the EEA, unless the transfer is:
- (a) To a country approved by the European Commission as having adequate data protection laws to protect the Personal Data (there are only a handful of these);
 - (b) To an organisation that has entered into a data transfer agreement with us (based on European Commission approved standard contracts); or
 - (c) To an organisation that has its "binding corporate rules" approved by the European data protection regulators.
- 6.15 Personal Data cannot be transferred outside of the PRC, unless the transfer:
- (a) Is with the Taboolar's consent to do so;
 - (b) Passed the security assessment organized by the PRC cyberspace administration;
 - (c) Has been certified in accordance with the provisions of the PRC cyberspace administration;
 - (d) Is to an overseas recipient that has entered into a data transfer agreement (based on a standard contract formulated by the PRC cyberspace administration, or until available, is in good faith based on best industry practices);
 - (e) Satisfied other conditions prescribed by laws, administrative regulations, or the PRC cyberspace administration.
- 6.16 If you are aware of any (planned) Personal Data transfers without at least one of the above mechanisms in place or to confirm that one of the above mechanisms is in place, please contact Taboola's Legal Team, at legal@taboola.com.

Data Protection by Design and Data Protection Impact Assessments

- 6.17 Taboola must build data protection compliance into our processes and systems from the ground up. To do this, it is important that all Taboolars have a good understanding of our data protection obligations (as set out in this Data Handling Policy). It is also necessary to ensure that the concept of "Data Protection by Design" — or ensuring that new systems that Taboola introduces are designed to minimize the Personal Data that they collect — is embedded into our product development processes and considered from the outset and throughout the life cycle of the product. This is especially important for our R&D, Product, and IT Taboolars to keep in mind as they perform their business tasks.
- 6.18 We also have standard procedures and templates for carrying out a "Data Protection Impact Assessment" or "DPIA" — which is the process of evaluating and documenting the potential individual privacy risks that could result from Taboola's new projects, processes, or product developments that involve the collection of Personal Data. For higher risk (more intrusive) uses of Personal Data, completing a DPIA may be required by data protection law. Please consult with Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com to determine whether your new project or product development task requires a DPIA.

7. Data protection complaints

- 7.1 For instructions on how EEA Data Subjects may exercise their data subject rights, please see the EEA Data Subject Rights Handling Policy. For instructions on how PRC Data Subjects may exercise their data subject rights, please see the PRC Data Subject Rights Handling Policy.
- 7.2 For complaints from individuals about Taboola's processing of their Personal Data, please immediately direct the complaint to Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.

EEA Data Subject Rights Handling Policy

1. Introduction

Taboola has issued this EEA Data Subject Rights Handling Policy to describe the practices and procedures that Taboola follows when it receives requests about our use of Personal Data from: (i) individuals who interact with Taboola’s Content Distribution Platform (“Users”); (ii) publishers, advertisers, and other content providers with whom Taboola has a contractual relationship (“Customers”); and (iii) Taboola’s permanent and non-permanent employees, former employees, contractors, consultants, temporary workers, interns, job applicants, and volunteers (“Taboolars”). Any individual User, Customer, or Taboolar in the European Economic Area, (“EEA”) whose data is processed by Taboola shall each be referred to hereinafter as a “Data Subject”.

2. Rights That All Data Subjects Have Regarding Their Personal Data

Data Subjects have data protection rights that they may exercise by making a request to Taboola (a “Data Subject Rights Request”). These data subject rights include the right to request:

- Access to their Personal Data;
- Rectification or Correction of their Personal Data;
- Erasure of their Personal Data (also referred to as the ‘Right to be Forgotten’);
- Restriction on Taboola’s processing of their Personal Data;
- Portability of their Personal Data;
- Termination of any further processing of their Personal Data (also referred to as the ‘Right to Object’);
- Not to be subject to automated decision making; and
- Not to be sent direct marketing.

2.1 Each of these rights is described in more detail in Sections 11-18 below.

2.2 The procedures described in this EEA Data Subject Rights Handling Policy outline how Taboola, as a data controller (the entity determining the purpose for which, and manner in which, the Personal Data is processed), will respond to any Data Subject Rights Requests.

3. Responsibility to Respond to a Data Subject Rights Request

3.1 The controller of a Data Subject’s Personal Data is primarily responsible for responding to a Data Subject Rights Request and for facilitating the Data Subject’s exercise of his or her rights under applicable data protection laws. For example, because Taboola determines what data it will collect from its Taboolars, and how it will process this Taboolar data, Taboola is the controller of the Taboolar's Personal Data that it holds and processes. As the controller of the Taboolar's Data, Taboola must respond to any Data Subject Rights Request we receive from a Taboolar. As a second example, Taboola is a controller of the data that we collect from individuals ("Users") who interact with the Taboola Content Discovery Platform because we determine the purposes for which the data is collected and the means by which it is processed. Therefore, Taboola must respond to any Data Subject Rights Request we receive from a User about the Personal Data that we collect through our Content Discovery Platform.

- 3.2 In certain circumstances, Taboola may process a Data Subject's Personal Data as a processor on behalf of a third party who is the controller (rather than for its own purposes). In such instances, Taboola must inform the relevant third party promptly and provide it with reasonable assistance to help the third party honor the Data Subject's rights in accordance with applicable data protection laws.

4. Personal Data That Taboola Has Made Available to Third Parties

- 4.1 If Taboola shares Personal Data with third parties, it is our responsibility to inform those third parties of any request we receive from Data Subjects to rectify, erase, or restrict their Personal Data, unless doing so would involve disproportionate effort or is impossible. For example, when Taboola receives a Data Subject Rights Request, we must notify any relevant Taboola entity, processors, or other third parties (such as occupational health providers) that we have disclosed the Personal Data to, so that they may also update their records accordingly. As a general rule, in order to comply with this requirement, Taboola requires that all of its processors erase any Personal Data they receive from Taboola within thirty (30) days of their receipt of such Personal Data. If you have concerns about any service providers that you are engaged with, please consult with Taboola's Legal Team, at legal@taboola.com.
- 4.2 If requested, Taboola must also provide the Data Subject with details about third parties to whom we have disclosed the Data Subject's Personal Data.

5. Where Can You Send Your Own Data Subject Rights Requests and Questions?

- 5.1 If you are a Taboolar in the EEA, and you wish to make a Data Subject Rights Request regarding the Personal Data that Taboola holds about you, please send your request to employeesubjectaccessrequest@taboola.com.
- 5.2 Any questions regarding Taboolar Data Subject Rights Requests should also be sent to employeesubjectaccessrequest@taboola.com.
- 5.3 Users who engage with the Taboola Content Discovery Platform can make a Data Subject Rights Request here. All Data Subject Rights Requests and questions that you receive from non-Taboolars should be sent to Taboola's Privacy Team at privacy@taboola.com.

6. What to Do if You Receive a Data Subject Rights Request from a Taboolar or a Non-Taboolar Data Subject

- 6.1 If you receive a Data Subject Rights Request from another Taboolar, you should immediately direct the request to employeesubjectaccessrequest@taboola.com. Please also include the date on which you received it, along with any other information that may help us efficiently respond to the request.
- 6.2 If you receive a Data Subject Rights Request from a User who interacts with the Taboola Content Discovery Platform, you should (1) immediately refer the Data Subject to Taboola's Data Subject Access Request Portal, available here and (2) immediately forward the request to Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com, and please also include the date on which you received it, along with any other information that may help us efficiently respond to the request.
- 6.3 If you receive a Data Subject Rights Request from a Customer, you should immediately direct the request to Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com. Please also include the date on which you received it, along with any other information that may help us efficiently respond to the request.
- 6.4 European data protection legislation demands that Taboola respond to requests within a very short time frame, so it is crucial that you immediately direct any Data Rights Requests you receive to the appropriate person indicated above without delay.

7. Verification Process

- 7.1 Taboola's Privacy Team will assess every Data Rights Request that we receive to determine whether Taboola is the controller or a processor of the data requested. We may also need to verify that the request has been made by a genuine Data Subject (which may require that we request further identification of the requestor).
- 7.2 If we determine that Taboola is a processor of the Data Subject's requested data, and that one of Taboola's Customers or another third party is the controller of this data, then Taboola shall notify the Customer or third party as soon as possible, per data protection regulations. Taboola shall also help the controller comply with the Data Subject Rights Request (in accordance with any contract terms which may be in place with the controller).
- 7.3 If we determine that Taboola is the controller of the Data Subject's requested data, Taboola shall contact the individual in writing to confirm receipt of the Data Subject Rights Request and seek confirmation of identity (if not already validated).
- 7.4 If Taboola is not exempt under applicable data protection laws from fulfilling the Data Subject Rights Request (see Section 9.1, below), then Taboola, to the extent it deems necessary, will request any further information needed to action the individual's request.

Once Taboola has all the information it needs to honor the Data Subject Rights Request, Taboola will respond to the request in accordance with Section 11, below.

8. Exemptions from Requirement to Respond to a Data Subject Rights Request

- 8.1 Taboola is permitted to decline to honor a Data Subject Rights Request that is excessive or manifestly unfounded (for example, because repetitive requests have been made). In this case, Taboola must be able to demonstrate that the request is in fact, excessive or manifestly unfounded.
- 8.2 In some cases, specific additional exemptions may apply. Where specific exemptions relating to particular Data Subject Rights Request exist, these are explained below.
- 8.3 If Taboola is exempt from the requirement to fulfill a received Data Subject Rights Request, then Taboola will notify the individual that we intend to decline the Data Subject Rights Request and explain why an exemption applies. Taboolars should always forward inquiries to Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com, who can make an assessment about whether such an exemption applies. Please never make this determination yourself.

9. Timeframe for Responding to a Data Subject Rights Request

- 9.1 Data Subject Rights Requests must be responded to without undue delay and in no case later than one month from the receipt of the request, unless this is not possible because the request is particularly complex. In such complex cases, Taboola will be entitled to extend its response period by up to two additional months. Within the initial month following receipt of the Data Subject Rights Request, Taboola must provide the Data Subject with notice of its intention to respond within this extended time period. The notice provided must explain the reasons for the delay. Given this short time frame for responding to Data Subject Rights Requests, it is imperative that you direct any requests that you receive immediately to Taboola Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.

10. Charging for Data Subject Rights Requests

- 10.1 Taboola is not legally permitted to charge for acting on a Data Subject Rights Request unless Taboola is exempt from the obligation to act on the request (see Section 8, above) but is nonetheless prepared to act on the request anyway. In such a case, Taboola may charge the Data Subject a reasonable fee that accounts for the administrative costs of providing the information or communication or taking the action requested. Please consult with Taboola's Privacy Team before seeking to impose any fees for responding to a Data Subject Rights Request.

11. Requests for Access to Personal Data

The Right of Access: This is a Data Subject's right to obtain confirmation about whether his or her data is processed by a controller, and, if so, to be provided with details about and access to that Personal Data.

Information to be Provided in Response to a Right of Access Request

- 11.1 A Data Subject is entitled to request a copy of his or her Personal Data from Taboola. Where a Data Subject makes such a request, Taboola must confirm whether it holds and is processing Personal Data about that Data Subject and, if so, Taboola must provide that Personal Data to the Data Subject in an intelligible form.
- 11.2 The Data Subject making the request should also be provided with the following information:
 - 11.2.1 A description of the Personal Data and categories of Personal Data concerned;
 - 11.2.2 The expected period for which the Personal Data will be stored;
 - 11.2.3 The purposes for which the Personal Data is being held and processed;
 - 11.2.4 The recipients or classes of recipients to whom the Personal Data is, or may be, disclosed by Taboola;
 - 11.2.5 Confirmation of the Data Subject's right to request rectification or erasure of his or her Personal Data or to restrict or object to its processing;
 - 11.2.6 Confirmation of the Data Subject's right to lodge a complaint with a competent data protection authority;
 - 11.2.7 Details about the source of the Personal Data, if it was not collected from the Data Subject;
 - 11.2.8 Details about whether the Data Subject's Personal Data is subject to automated decision-making (including profiling); and
 - 11.2.9 Where Personal Data is transferred from the European Economic Area to a country outside of the European Economic Area, the appropriate safeguards that Taboola has put in place relating to transfers in accordance with European data protection laws.

Format of Requests

- 11.3 An access request does not have to be official or mention data protection law to qualify as a valid request. Please keep this in mind to the extent you receive any type of request from a User or Client — if you are not sure, it is best to check with Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.
- 11.4 An access request does not need to be made in writing and can be made orally but it is helpful if it is made in writing (for record keeping purposes). If made in writing it is also helpful if the Data Subject provides their email address and confirms whether the information can be sent to them by email (or other means by which they prefer to receive the information). Requests made electronically (e.g., by email) must be responded to electronically (in a commonly used format) unless the Data Subject stipulates otherwise. Data Subjects may ask for information to be provided orally instead. This is especially important for our human resources Taboolars to keep in mind, since they are most likely to receive oral requests from other Taboolars.

Exemptions

- 11.5 Taboola is not permitted to refuse to comply with an access request unless it can demonstrate that it is not in the position where we can identify the Data Subject who is making the request or Taboola is exempt from its obligations to comply (see Section 8, above, regarding exemptions).

12. Requests to Rectify Personal Data

The Right to Rectification: This is a Data Subject's right to obtain rectification of inaccurate Personal Data that a controller may process about him or her.

Rectification by Taboola

- 12.1 If Taboola holds inaccurate or incomplete records of Personal Data about a Data Subject, the Data Subject is entitled to request that the Personal Data is rectified.

Rectification by Third Parties

- 12.2 If Taboola rectifies a Data Subject's Personal Data, Taboola must also convey this rectification to any third parties that also use this Personal Data for processing purposes. See Section 4, above.

Supplementary Statements to Complete Personal Data

- 12.3 Because a request to rectify Personal Data involves ensuring that the records are complete, the Data Subject may elect to provide a supplementary statement so that Taboola may complete the records of Personal Data held about them. This process is unlikely to happen in connection with Taboola's Users, because we only hold their pseudonymized data. However, this may occur in connection with the Personal Data that we hold about our Customers or Taboolars.

13. Requests to Erase Personal Data ("Right to be Forgotten")

The Right to Erasure: This is a Data Subject's right to require a controller to erase his or her Personal Data on certain grounds – for example, where the Personal Data is no longer necessary to fulfil the purposes for which it was collected.

Circumstances in Which Right to Erasure Applies

- 13.1 A Data Subject may request that Taboola erases his or her Personal Data in the following circumstances:
- 13.1.1 The Personal Data is no longer necessary for the purpose for which it was collected or otherwise processed;
 - 13.1.2 The Personal Data was unlawfully processed by Taboola;
 - 13.1.3 If the processing was on the basis of the Data Subject's given consent, and the Data Subject elects to withdraw his or her consent (and Taboola does not rely on any other legitimate interest grounds for our processing);
 - 13.1.4 The Data Subject objects to Taboola's processing of his or her Personal Data (see Section 14, below) and Taboola does not have any overriding legitimate interest grounds for continuing to process the information; and
 - 13.1.5 The Personal Data needs to be erased to comply with Taboola's legal obligations.
 - 13.1.6 Taboola's Users may access and delete their Personal Data through Taboola's Data Subject Access Request Portal, available here.
 - 13.1.7 Taboola's Customers may send an access or deletion request directly to our Taboolars. If you receive such a request from a Customer, please immediately direct it to Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.
 - 13.1.8 Taboola's EEA Taboolars should reach out to employeeedatasubjectrights@taboola.com to make any such requests.

Erasure of Personal Data by Processors

- 13.2 If Taboola erases a Data Subject's information further to such a request, Taboola must also notify its processors. See Section 4, above.
- 13.3 If Taboola has made the Data Subject's Personal Data public (for example, by publicly posting a photograph of a Taboolar or Customer from an event), and if Taboola is obliged to erase the Personal Data pursuant to a Data Subject Rights Request, Taboola must take reasonable steps, including technical measures (balancing its available technology and the cost of implementation), to inform processors that are processing the Personal Data that the Data Subject has requested that this Personal Data, and any links to, copies, or replicas, of the Personal Data be erased. This is most relevant for Taboolars in our Marketing Departments, so please consult with Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com, if you receive any erasure requests from Customers or potential customers following any marketing events.

Exemptions

- 13.4 In addition to the exemptions referred to above, Taboola is exempt from the obligation to erase Personal Data where its processing is necessary for:
- 13.4.1 Compliance with Taboola's legal obligations;
 - 13.4.2 Establishing, exercising, or defending legal claims;
 - 13.4.3 Scientific, historical, or statistical purposes where erasure of the Personal Data would make this processing impossible or seriously impair it (please note that this exemption is unlikely to apply to Taboola).

14. Right to Object to Processing

The Right to Object: This is a Data Subject's right to object to a controller's processing of his or her Personal Data, if the controller is processing based on legitimate interest grounds.

Circumstances in Which Data Subjects May Object to Processing

- 14.1 A Data Subject may object to Taboola's processing of his or her Personal Data, where Taboola relies on its legitimate business interests as the grounds for processing the Personal Data.

Exemptions

- 14.2 In addition to the exemption referred to above, Taboola is exempt from the obligation to cease further processing of a Data Subject's Personal Data if:
- 14.2.1 Taboola can demonstrate that we have compelling legitimate interest grounds for processing the Personal Data that override the interests, rights, and freedoms of the Data Subject;
 - 14.2.2 The processing is to establish, exercise, or defend a legal claim; and
 - 14.2.3 The processing is for scientific, historical, or statistical purposes carried out in the public interest (please note that this exemption is unlikely to apply to Taboola).

15. Right to Restriction

The Right to Restriction: This is a Data Subject's right to require that Taboola restrict its processing of his or her Personal Data.

- 15.1 Where certain grounds are met (for example, where a Data Subject has contested the accuracy of data and a period of time is required for Taboola to verify the accuracy of the Personal Data or if Taboola is determining whether a Data Subject's objection to processing overrides Taboola's legitimate interests), the processing of the Data Subject's Personal Data will need to cease, absent the Data Subject's specific consent. If you believe you have received a request for restriction, please share it immediately with the Taboola Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.

16. Right to Data Portability

The Right to Data Portability: This is Data Subject's right to request that a controller provide any Personal Data that it processed with the Data Subject's consent via automated means to another controller in a structured, commonly used, and machine-readable format.

- 16.1 For Taboola, this is likely to only apply when a Taboolar leaves Taboola to another employer. In such cases, Taboola shall take confidentiality into consideration before making any such transfer.

17. Right to Not Be Subject to Automated Decision Making (Including Profiling)

The Right to Not Be Subject to Automated Decision Making: This is the Data Subject's right to object to an automated decision made about an individual (for example, without a human involved) which has a legal or other similar effect on the individual. Individuals can ask for human intervention in the process.

- 17.1 Taboola does not engage in this type of automated decision making.

18. Right to Object to Direct Marketing

The Right to Object to Direct Marketing: This is a Data Subject's right to object to direct marketing, including profiling relating to direct marketing.

- 18.1 If Taboola receives a request to stop using Personal Data for direct marketing purposes, we must stop doing so. Please refer our Customers to our subscription center if you receive any such request and refer the request to Taboola's Marketing Team at marketing@taboola.com.

PRC Data Subject Rights Handling Policy

1. Introduction

Taboola has issued this PRC Data Subject Rights Handling Policy to describe the practices and procedures that Taboola follows when it receives requests about our use of Personal Data (in this PRC Policy, referred to as “Personal Information”) from: (i) individuals who interact with Taboola’s Content Distribution Platform (“Users”); (ii) publishers, advertisers, and other content providers with whom Taboola has a contractual relationship, (“Customers”); and (iii) Taboola’s permanent and non-permanent employees, former employees, contractors, consultants, temporary workers, interns, job applicants, and volunteers (“Taboolars”). Any individual User, Customer, or Taboolar in the People’s Republic of China, (“PRC”) whose data is processed by Taboola shall each be referred to hereinafter as a “Data Subject”.

2. Rights That All Data Subjects Have Regarding Their Personal Information

Data Subjects have data protection rights that they may exercise by making a request to Taboola (a “Data Subject Rights Request”). These data subject rights include the:

- Right to be informed
- Right to determine, restrict, and refuse data handling
- Right to access and request a copy
- Right to rectify and supplement
- Right to delete
- Right of portability
- Right relating to automated decisions
- Right of the deceased

2.1 Each of these rights is described in more detail in Sections 11-18 below.

2.2 The procedures described in this PRC Data Subject Rights Handling Policy outline how Taboola, as a processing entity (the entity determining the purpose for which, and manner in which, the Personal Information is processed), will respond to any Data Subject Rights Requests.

3. Responsibility to Respond to a Data Subject Rights Request

3.1 The personal information processing entity of a Data Subject’s Personal Information is primarily responsible for responding to a Data Subject Rights Request and for facilitating the Data Subject’s exercise of his or her rights under applicable data protection laws. For example, because Taboola determines what data it will collect from its Taboolars, and how it will process this Taboolar data, Taboola is the processing entity of the Taboolar's Personal Information that it holds and processes. As the processing entity of the Taboolar's Data, Taboola must respond to any Data Subject Rights Request we receive from a Taboolar.

- 3.2 In certain circumstances, Taboola may process a Data Subject's Personal Information as an entrusted party on behalf of a third party who is the processing entity (rather than for its own purposes). In such instances, Taboola must inform the relevant third party promptly and provide it with reasonable assistance to help the third party honor the Data Subject's rights in accordance with applicable data protection laws.

4. Personal Information That Taboola Has Made Available to Third Parties

- 4.1 If Taboola shares Personal Information with third parties, it is our responsibility to inform those third parties of any request we receive from Data Subjects to rectify, erase, or restrict their Personal Information, unless doing so would involve disproportionate effort or is impossible. For example, when Taboola receives a Data Subject Rights Request, we must notify any relevant Taboola entity, processors, or other third parties (such as occupational health providers) that we have disclosed the Personal Information to, so that they may also update their records accordingly. As a general rule, in order to comply with this requirement, Taboola requires that all of its entrusted parties erase any Personal Information they receive from Taboola within thirty (30) days of their receipt of such Personal Information. If you have concerns about any service providers that you are engaged with, please consult with Taboola's Legal Team, at legal@taboola.com.

- 6.4 PRC data protection legislation demands that Taboola respond to requests within a very short time frame, so it is crucial that you immediately direct any Data Rights Requests you receive to the appropriate person indicated above without delay.

7. Verification Process

- 7.1 Taboola's Privacy Team will assess every Data Rights Request that we receive to determine whether Taboola is the processing entity or an entrusted party of the data requested. We may also need to verify that the request has been made by a genuine Data Subject (which may require that we request further identification of the requestor).
- 7.2 If we determine that Taboola is an entrusted party of the Data Subject's requested data, and that one of Taboola's Customers or another third party is the processing entity of this data, then Taboola shall notify the Customer or third party as soon as possible, per data protection regulations. Taboola shall also help the processing entity comply with the Data Subject Rights Request (in accordance with any contract terms which may be in place with the processing entity).

- 7.4 If Taboola is not exempt under applicable data protection laws from fulfilling the Data Subject Rights Request (see Section 8.1, below), then Taboola, to the extent it deems necessary, will request any further information needed to action the individual's request.

Once Taboola has all the information it needs to honor the Data Subject Rights Request, Taboola will respond to the request in accordance with Section 9, below.

8. Exemptions from Requirement to Respond to a Data Subject Rights Request

- 8.1 If Taboola is exempt from the requirement to fulfill a received Data Subject Rights Request, then Taboola will notify the individual that we intend to decline the Data Subject Rights Request and explain why an exemption applies. Taboolars should always forward inquiries to Taboola's Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com, who can make an assessment about whether such an exemption applies. Please never make this determination yourself.

9. Timeframe for Responding to a Data Subject Rights Request

- 9.1 Data Subject Rights Requests must be responded to without undue delay It is imperative that you direct any requests that you receive immediately to Taboola Privacy Team, at privacy@taboola.com.

10. Right To Be Informed

- 10.1 Data subjects have the right to be informed of the processing activities. In particular, the PIPL requires that processing entities should provide the following information to Data Subjects prior to the processing of their personal information:
- (a) The identity and contact details of the processing entity;
 - (b) The purposes and methods of the processing;
 - (c) The type of Personal Information to be handled and the storage period;
 - (d) The methods and procedures for data subjects to exercise their rights;
 - (e) Other information that is required to be informed by laws and regulations;
and
 - (f) Changes to the above, if any.
- 10.2 If the above information is provided through privacy policies, such policies should be made public and easy to be accessed and saved. Data subjects have the right to request explanations on such policies.
- 10.3 Applicable privacy law and regulations outline two instances in which a controlling entity will be exempted from the above obligations: where law or regulation requires that processing Personal Information be (1) confidential or (2) exempted from notification.

11. Right To Determine, Restrict, and Refuse Data Processing

- 11.1 Data Subjects have the right to determine whether to permit the processing activities proposed by data handlers, and have the right to restrict or refuse whole or part of such activities.
- 11.2 However, it is pending further clarification by PRC legislators as to how could a data subject exercise such rights (particularly for the circumstances where the data processing activities are relying on legal bases other than consent).

12. Right Of Access And Right To Request A Copy Of Personal Information

- 12.1 Data subjects have the right to access and request a copy of their personal information, whilst the PIPL provides exceptions to such rights where law or regulation requires the processing of Personal Information (either carried out by government authorities or other data handlers) to be confidential or be exempted from notification.

13. Right To Rectify And Supplement

- 13.1 Where the personal information is not accurate or complete, data subjects have the right to request data handlers to rectify or supplement the information in a timely manner (after necessary verification by data handlers).

 - (b) The processing entity has ceased to provide the products or services, or the agreed storage period has expired;
 - (c) Data Subjects have withdrawn their consent;
 - (d) The processing entity has violated applicable laws or regulations or any agreement relating to the handling of personal information; or
 - (e) Other situations provided for by law or regulation.
- 14.2 Notably, if the statutory storage period is not expired (which may under other applicable laws and regulations) or it is technically unfeasible to delete the personal information, data handlers should cease the handling activities (except for taking necessary security measures and storage of information).

15. Right Of Portability

- 15.1 As an important change brought by the PIPL, data subjects are granted the right to request their personal information to be transferred to other designated data handlers, provided that such request satisfies certain conditions to be raised by Cyberspace Administration of China ('CAC').
- 15.2 However, the details on exercising such right are pending further clarification. Particularly, the CAC conditions are yet to be released to the public and it is also unclear as to the scope of personal information that could be portable.

16. Right Relating to Automated Decisions

- 16.1 Where the personal information is used for automated decision and such decision may cause material impact to personal rights and interests, data subjects have the right to request an explanation on such handling activity and refuse to accept any determination that is made merely relying on the automated decision.
- 16.2 Similarly, if the automated decision is applied for message pushes or marketing promotion, data subjects have the right to refuse such handling.

17. Right Of The Deceased

- 17.1 For the Personal Information of the deceased, the above rights to access, copy, rectify, and deletion could be exercised by his/her close relatives (for lawful and legitimate interests of their own), unless there exists other arrangement that is priorly made by the deceased.
